GLOBAL FAST TV

Free, ad-supported streaming television,
built on written rights clearance,
region by region.

INVESTOR PITCH | MIDDLE EAST EDITION | OCTOBER 2026

THE PROBLEM

Free TV runs on rights, territory by territory

- Streaming channels are licensed territory by territory. A channel cleared in one country is not cleared in the next.
- Platforms that carry channels without documented clearance carry the legal risk themselves, and app stores require documented rights.
- Viewers still want free television, and channel owners still want wider distribution. Both sides need a service built on written clearance from the start.

THE PRODUCT

A working app, built clearance-first

- Global FAST TV is a free streaming TV app. A working skeleton is built and tested: live channel playback, a channel grid with categories, search, and favorites stored on the device.
- Every channel carries a territory list, and the app shows a channel only where it is cleared. A channel enters the app only when its clearance is recorded in our rights register.
- The app is structured in regional sections: Africa, Middle East, and Europe, each programmed and cleared separately.

PROOF TODAY

Built, tested, and cleared at zero spend

- Code analysis clean. Fifteen of fifteen automated tests passing, verified in two separate runs.
- Two channels are cleared for worldwide carriage and live in the app: NASA TV and the NASA Media Channel, works of the United States federal government, not subject to copyright.
- Channel licensing outreach sent on October 23, 2026 to FAST Channels TV, Amagi CONNECT, FilmRise, and Fast on Africa. Replies are pending.
- Total spend on the project to date: zero.

THE MODEL

Viewers pay nothing. Advertising pays.

- Revenue is advertising inside the app, plus distributor revenue share under written channel agreements.
- No subscription is charged for FAST channels. Paid tiers, if they ever exist, will cover separately licensed premium extras only.
- Costs stay lean: the app is built and maintained in-house, channels arrive by agreement, and no content is bought up front.

REGIONAL STRATEGY

Clearance first, then channels, then audience

- Africa: licensing outreach is out to four distributors and channel partners. The first partner to agree terms is the partner we build with.
- Middle East: an Arabic-first edition. This raise funds the local entity, Arabic channel clearance, and the first local hire.
- Europe: a parallel edition on the same structure, its own company formed as part of its own round.

OUR POSITION, STATED PLAINLY

The honest strategy

We want to be plain about our position. We are a small company building this app ourselves, and we have no money to pay for licenses, fees, or setup charges up front. What we put in is the build: a finished, tested app, made and maintained by us, with the Middle East section built and ready. The model we offer every partner is the same: we open together, the advertising earns, we share that revenue, and as a section makes money we invest in the ground presence it needs. We make money together, or nobody does.

THE ASK

US $300,000 pre-seed for the Middle East edition

- 1. Form a local entity in the chosen base country, owned 100 percent by Onikan Global Solutions LLC.
- 2. License and document clearance for Arabic and regional channels, territory by territory.
- 3. Hire the first local lead, based in the region, to run the edition on the ground.
- 4. Cover regional delivery costs for the edition.
- Target valuation for this raise: US $3,000,000.

The investment is scoped to the Middle East edition only. No figure in this deck is a projection; the company is pre-revenue and says so.

STRUCTURE

Our structure, without inflation

- Onikan Global Solutions LLC is a United States company. The founder, Franklin Onikan, is based in Taylor, Pennsylvania, and remains based there. No relocation is claimed or implied anywhere in this pitch.
- The Middle East ground presence is built with the raise itself: a local entity owned by the US company, then a local lead hired in the region.
- Solo founder today. The founder designed and built the current product and runs the company's licensing outreach.

STATUS, AS IT IS

Pre-revenue, and stated as such

No users, no revenue, and no signed channel licenses yet. A built and tested app, two rights-cleared channels in it, a rights register that gates everything else, and licensing outreach live on three continents. That is the whole record, with nothing added.
